14 Allergens

Coming to a food label near you

The way allergens are labelled on prepacked foods is changing because of new regulations. The Food Information Regulation, which comes into force in December 2014, introduces a requirement that food businesses must provide information about the allergenic ingredients used in any food they sell or provide.

There are 14 major allergens which need to be mentioned (either on a label or through provided information such as menus) when they are used as ingredients in a food. Here are the allergens, and some examples of where they can be found.

Allergy Advice

In compliance with food labelling regulation - EC1169/2011. Customers are advised to let our staff know if any food may cause allergic reaction prior to order.

If you would like to know the list of ingredients used in a particular dish from our menu, our manager will be happy to assist you.

	Sesame seeds These seeds can often be found in bread (sprinkled on hot-dogger buns for example), breadsticks, bounous, sesame oil and tahini. They are sometimes toasted and used in salads.	12
13	Soya Often found in bean curd, edamame beans, miso paste, textured soya protein, soya flour or tofu, soya is a staple ingredient in oriental food. It can also be found in desserts, ice cream, meat products, sauces and vegetarian products.
